The HR Dept. gains liP accreditation

We are delighted to be able to share with you the news that The HR Dept has been successful in its bid to achieve Investors in People status.

As a company involved with helping clients avoid people problems, it's nice to know that our own systems and training values are recognised at the highest level.

You could argue that it demonstrates we practice what we preach - that if you get the right foundations and policies in place you can have a happy, effective and productive workforce, and that's certainly the case here at The HR Dept.

You may also be aware that The HR Dept is expanding its operation UK wide through licensed consultants, who will also operate to liP standards.

We understand we will be formally presented with our Investors in People plaque within the next few months, which will, of course, take pride of place in our head office.

For more information on how the HR Dept. can help you 'Prevent People Problems' call the team on 0870 240 1919 or email info@hrdept.co.uk
